Situation In New York

Florda.
nta, Ga., Oct. 25.—In addition to being subjected to banishment in some northern localities, it appears that the negro immigrants from the south also find bedding with the cost of living, according to reports received by the department of commerce or.

ular rental situation has in the Harlem district of New York which threatens friction between the races in addition to the heavy on the new arrivals from the south. Protests have been made to the state commission on housing and regional planning by landlords in this area are supplanting white tenants with negroes, charging the labor twice as much as the former used to pay.

ing the representative of the Harlem Tenants association and landlords of "white" apartment houses to force their tenants to move out of their homes in order to keep up repairs, raise rents to the limit permitted by city laws, offering bonus to tenants who move, and as a last resort installing negro house owners. This final step is said to be the worst of all, as the white apartment owners think negroes are

WANT ROAD REPAIRED.

Citizens of Great Falls and Chester County Police Commissioners have petitioned the county officials to do something for Chester County Road—Road Repaired or Going to Pieces and Now Very Rough.

The following petition from Great Falls and community has been handed to the county officials as addressed at the head of the petition.

Much complaint has recently been heard from the Great Falls section, as going to travel the road, as to its condition, and it is generally hoped that something will be done for this road in the immediate future.

The petition is as follows:

Great Falls, S. C.,
October 20th, 1923.

Chester County Board of Directors,
Chester County Representatives:

We, the undersigned citizens of Great Falls and community, respectfully request that you gentlemen make some provision for proper maintenance of the Great Falls-Chester highway. This road, we think, is one of the most important highways in Chester county, and an inspection by you will thoroughly convince you that the road has been allowed to deteriorate to such an extent that it is now in very bad condition.

We understand that an effort is being made to get this highway into the State Highway system. We appreciate this action, nevertheless we think the road should be properly maintained and kept in good shape until such time as it is taken over by the State Highway Commission.

What we want is immediate action and as citizens and taxpayers we urgently request that something be done at once.

WORLD MOVEMENT FOR PROHIBITION DISCUSSED

More Significant Than Movement of Century Ago Against Slavery Says Bishop.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 29.—There is a world movement for the prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquors "which is more significant than the movement of a century ago against slavery," Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Chicago, president of the Anti-Saloon League of America, declared tonight in an address before the annual executive meeting of the Women's home missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"The common sense of humanity sees the prohibition and the absolute abolition of the saloon and the drink trade as the only cure for problems created by the liquor traffic," Bishop Nicholson said, speaking to the 1,000 delegates who represent a membership of 620,000.

He said that prohibition "had taken root everywhere, although not as a prohibition movement, as in the United States." The English prohibiting sale of intoxicants to minors and the restriction in U. S. Ireland, requiring Sunday closing, it may be a long and stubborn fight but it eventually will be a winning fight for the forces of righteousness and morality.

In the United States, Bishop Nicholson said, "the liquor traffic is doomed. The country will never go back on the eighteenth amendment. It may be a long and stubborn fight but it eventually will be a winning fight for the forces of righteousness and morality."

STATE RAILROAD BOARD CANNOT REGULATE RATES

Charleston, Oct. 31.—Judge H. A. M. Smith in the United States court for the eastern district of South Carolina, in an order issued today, held as null and void the rulings of the South Carolina railroad commission, which attempted to fix the maximum rates of fares, freight and charges for passenger traffic in the state and upheld the rates as fixed by the interstate commerce commission. It was also recommended that a final injunction be issued restraining the commission from enforcing the provisions of their ruling, or to these fares and charges and restraining them from in any wise modifying the railroad, their agents or employees from levying and collecting the rates as fixed by the interstate commerce commission.

The merchant placed the "frock" in his window and priced it $9.98, which represented a comfortable profit. The garment in the window represented 98 cents' worth of raw material, $1.36 worth of labor, $2.68 worth of transportation and $5.55 worth of saleremoney. It was a nice little frock, but nobody bought it—not because the price was too high, but because everybody had an idea that it could not be worth much at that price. Then the merchant removed it from the window and placed it on a form in a great room that boasted a Persian rug, soft rose light and three dozen palms. There was a yellow-haired princess to tell patrons about the frock, and the new price tag read $185. Seventeen sweet ladies slipped and wished they could afford it, and the eighteen bought it after a futile effort to find something more expensive.

The ancient colored man made a small cry and will begin the next season owing the landlord $36.12 for fat pork and molasses. Baltimore Sun.

GREAT REVIVAL AT NIAGARA FALLS

Billy Sunday Rests For Few Days Prior to Visit to Charleston.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Ten thousand men, women and children jammed the mammoth Niagara Falls tabernacle tonight to hear the famous evangelist of the greatest religious campaign this section of the country ever has known. Not only has the big religious movement been international in character, through the participation of those from the Canadian side of the river, but during the course of the meetings representatives have been in the audience from practically every state of the union.

Today Niagara Falls, known outside as a city seldom moved to demonstrations of any sort, conservative, exploiting its commercial aspects, is bowing at the foot of the Cross, penitently in tears, beginning a religious period in the city's history which is counted upon to change the entire character of this section of New York state.

Billy Sunday has preached here for six weeks. At the closing service tonight he said: "I have never known a city harder to move than Niagara Falls, but I never have witnessed a more marvelous demonstration of the power of God to touch the heart of a great municipality than we have witnessed here this week."

During the concluding portion of the meeting, thousands have hit the sidewalk trail. Following the sermon to men only this afternoon, 5,000 men accepted Christ as their personal Savior.

A Bit of Byekology.

A little patch of cotton was tended by an ancient colored man who owned a weaving mill. The ancient man paid a third of his crop as rent and a white man sold him fertilizer to grow his crop. When the cotton was picked the ancient man paid $2.50 to have a bale ginned. He sold it to a street buyer who paid him 25 cents a pound, added a profit and sold the bale to a broker.

The cotton was shipped by truck to the broker added a profit and sold to a cotton mill. The bale was shipped by rail. The mill made the cotton into cloth, added a profit, and sold the cloth to a manufacturer of garments. The cloth was shipped by rail. The manufacturer hired a cutter to fashion a frock and a girl to stitch the seams and affix the buttons. Then he added a profit and sold the frock to a wholesaler. It was carried across town in a truck. The wholesaler placed the garment on a rack added a profit, and sold it to an out-of-town merchant. It was shipped by express.

The merchant placed the "frock" in his window and priced it $9.98, which represented a comfortable profit. The garment in the window represented 98 cents' worth of raw material, $1.36 worth of labor, $2.68 worth of transportation and $5.55 worth of saleremoney. ### November Poultry Hints.

November eggs are valuable and every effort should be made to get maximum production this month. An extra egg will mean an extra nickel and should be no considered. Other farm work is not so pressing at this season and the farm flock will prove responsive to a little additional care.

The winter quarters should be clean and roomy. The back of the house should be sealed tight so that no draft can reach roosting birds at night. Open front houses facing South or Southeast should be used in sections where the weather is severe, cotton curtains should be used at night.

The floor should be covered with straw five to eight inches of clean straw, hay, leaves, Spanish moss or some other material that will hide the scratch feed. Scratch grain should be fed in this litter always regardless of whether pullets are confined or on the range.

In case birds are not consuming enough mash for best production they may be confined to the house all or a part of the day. Confining the birds until afternoon often answers the purpose. Another method to induce heavier eating of mash is to feed wet mash once a day. A wet mash for layers should not be sloppy, and only what the birds will clean up in 10 minutes should be given. This mash may be mixed with water or milk. Milk is preferable.

Fresh water is one of the cheapest and yet most important part of a bird's ration. Best water should be available at all times. supplied twice a day. Oyster shell Green feed is necessary and essential.

Study Center Meets.

The second meeting of the Chester County Study Center will be held in the College Street School building Saturday morning, November 3, at 10:00 o'clock. All the teachers are urged to be present, and those who did not enroll at the first meeting are urged to do so on this date.

The work done in this Study Center is of a high order, and will be of invaluable help to those teachers who will take advantage of this wonderful opportunity for growth and development in their profession.

Mrs. Rice, Primary and Intermediate Supervisor in the Rock Hill Schools, will give an outline of the whole Primary and Grammar Grade course of study through the fifth grade. This in itself will be a wonderful help to the teacher interested in the first through the fifth grades. Dr. Wainmley is also outlining his course in Ancient and American History, and these are going to prove two very interesting as well as instructive studies. No teacher of History can afford to miss these, and others will find them of great help in their work, no matter what the subject.

STATEMENT THE S. M. JONES COMPANY

We were simply swamped with business Wednesday morning, and we were very sorry that we had to close our doors and turn our friends away, but we were forced to do so, as we could not begin to wait on the people, whom we already had in the store. We wish to say that we still have just as wonderful bargains as we had when we opened Wednesday morning, and we have all through this Closing Out Sale, and will hope that all those who could not get waited on Wednesday, will come again. We wish to thank all who were in our store yesterday for their consideration and patience, and for the splendid response to our advertisements.

The gentleman stated that this year he made 7 bales of cotton, whereas in 1920 on the same land, and with the same amount of fertilizer, he made 50 bales. He is just 52 bales short this year as compared with 1920. The shortage this year is contributed to the long dry spell in the Woodgate section.

TO KEEP AUTOMOBILES TO RIGHT SIDE OF ROAD

Lines Will Be Painted Down Center of Highways in Every Part of State.

Raleigh N. C., Oct. 31.—Adopting a policy, now in use in many of the states in the east having road building programs underway, the state highway commission calls attention to the next system of centering the roads which it is using.

Down the center of every highway in the state, according to commission officials, a white or black line will be painted. The white will be used on the bituminous surfaced roads and the black on the concrete roads. The object of this line is to divide the road exactly in half with the hope that traffic proceeding in opposite directions will keep to the right of the line.

This method has proven useful in other states in keeping automobiles to the right side of the road, the psychological effect, according to the officials, being great. The lines may be easily seen at night in the reflection of the headlights and no doubt will prove of great help to automobilists using the roads during the dark hours, it is said.

Several roads of the state already have been given the state already in the middle and the results attained on these roads have been encouraging. The commission officials, who see in this plan a method of reducing the hazards of auto travel.

The mechanical eye of the aviator's camera is adding materially to our knowledge of prehistoric man. Primitive disturbances of the soil may have disappeared so completely as to leave no trace whatever on the surface, and yet are plainly visible from airship. The so-called "Avenue," leading from the famous monuments of Stonehenge, near Salisbury, England, has now been traced as far as the River Avon by means of aerial photographs and later verification made by pedestrians. It is now believed that the stones were taken from the Prescelly Hills in Pembrokeshire and brought by sea up the river Avon to a point near Stonehenge where they were taken overland to Stonehenge by means of a newly discovered avenue which follows the gentlest slopes up from the river.

URGES AMERICA TO SIDE WITH HUMANITY
Lloyd George Makes Last Appeal For Peace

Richmond, Va., Oct. 29.—Speaking at a luncheon here today, David Lloyd George, wartime premier of Great Britain, urged the Americans to side with the side of "humanity and peace."

"My last appeal in leaving the capital of the South," he said, "is an appeal to you who have memories of a great war which raged around this capital and who have more recent memories of another war where you contributed to help liberty, that you should also save the might and majesty of your nation on the side of humanity and peace."

The address was delivered from the stairway of the home of his host, John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond News Leader, at the close of a luncheon and reception to prominent citizens and after he had completed a tour of battlefields in this vicinity.

Speaking of his impressions of those fields as well as of the wilderness and Gettysburg, which he visited the previous two days, the premier declared that, terrible as those battles were, he had been struck by how much more terrible to death and destruction were the great battles of the World War.

"The lesson of the contrast between the battlefields of today and those of 60 years ago," he said, "is that if civilization is to be saved at all, it will be necessary to think in terms that resolutely and act to put an end to war altogether. The progress of the forces of destruction, he added, is at greatly accelerated speed. To save the world from something which nearly destroyed civilization five years ago, he continued, and which certainly will overthrow it as the Vikings and Huns did in the early days of the Christian era unless some step is taken, somebody must intervene. The British empire, he declared, "is ready to cast the whole of its influence in this direction but standing alone can do nothing."

"Standing together," he added, "your people and ours, the Anglo mightest commonwealth on earth can save civilization and unless they do humanity is doomed."

A fireless railway locomotive is being developed in France. It is equipped with a boiler after the manner of the ordinary locomotive, but the water in it is heated to the necessary temperature from a stationary plant. Enough power can be stored in it to operate it four hours for switching purposes in a railway yard. It requires but fifteen minutes to charge it.

DELIVERIES OF COTTON EXCEED PREVIOUS YEAR
Splendid Reports Come in from Headquarters Cooperative Marketing Association

Columbia, Oct. 30.—The South Carolina Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association had up to last night received 12,000 bales of cotton more than up to this time last year, according to officials of the organization. The daily deliveries now are much higher than for the corresponding period last year and it is believed by the officers of the association that the grand total for the season will be 25 per cent more than last year.

Officials of the association think the delivery record especially good when it is considered that the association had approximately 40,000 bales of old cotton delivered to it last season, a very considerable portion of which had been delivered by the middle of October. There was very little old cotton to be turned over this year.

Hundreds of members of the association visited the headquarters of the association last week while in Columbia for the state fair. Almost without exception they were enthusiastic over the progress which the association is making and express confidence that there will be another tremendous increase in its membership next year.

That co-operative marketing has been a very important factor in stabilizing the market and putting the price where it is today was the belief expressed by most of the members.

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive. Similar to this one from Mrs. Z. W. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and had suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. ——— had us get Cardui. . . I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

TAKE CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

She writes further: "I am in splendid health and can do my work. I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was a dreadful sufferer. If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. Think what it means to be in splendid health, like Mrs. Spell. Give Cardui a trial."

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

Making new capital work for the South

The margin between the cost of producing transportation and the price received for it is so small that it requires the utmost efficiency of management, and the most carefully directed expenditure of new capital, to safeguard even a small return on the investment.

In no other large business enterprise is so great an amount of capital risked for so small a return as in railroad transportation.

The $285,000,000 of new money that has been put into the Southern Railway System in the past twenty years has been largely devoted to increasing capacity and promoting operating efficiency.

We receive many requests for the elimination of grade crossings, the construction of monumental passenger stations, and other non-revenue-producing improvements. The communities we serve naturally desire to have as much of this work done as can be safely financed, but they have recognized that their interests will best be served by expenditures which produce more and better transportation.

It is only because new capital has been expended on productive improvements that the Southern Railway System today is an efficient transportation machine and an asset to the South.
